

FAITH — HERE & NOW: AN INTERRELIGIOUS EXPLORATION

Rabbi Marcia Plumb
Congregation
Mishkan Tefila
Tuesday, May 11
1:00-2:00 PM

Imam Abdul-Malik
Merchant
Tufts University
Wednesday, May 19
1:00-2:00 PM

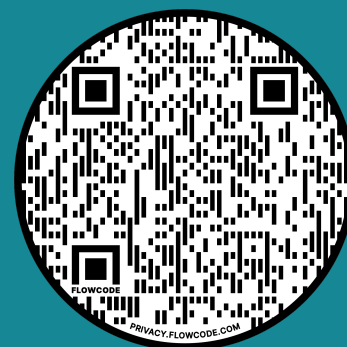

Reverend John
Stendahl
Lutheran Church
of the Newtons
Tuesday, May 25
1:00-2:00 PM

What does the word “faith” mean in this liminal moment between quarantine and a return to public life?
How have we held and expressed our faith commitments—religious and secular—over the course of the pandemic?
What roles do doubt and questioning play as we sort through the collage of emotion that we carry with us daily?

The Miller Center for Interreligious Learning and Leadership invites you to a unique opportunity for an interreligious exploration. We will explore notions of faith amidst the pandemic through text study and discussion with leaders from Boston’s Jewish, Christian, and Muslim communities. Each session will open with a brief video presentation from the photographic exhibit “Faith in Isolation Expressed,” curated by Brenda Bancel, and close with a musical selection and silent meditation.

Rabbi Or Rose of the Miller Center of Hebrew College will serve as moderator.

REGISTER
HERE FOR THIS FREE VIRTUAL EVENT

*This program is a collaboration of the Miller Center and the Arts Committee of Hebrew College